Insist on Strong Controls

Warning Given Of Possible $1 A Day Increase in Cost of Living

WASHINGTON, July 5—(AP)—The Truman administration today hit at the economic controls law pending in Congress as likely to mean $1-a-day increase in living costs for every American family.

Eric Johnston, economic stabilization director, made that estimate of it, and said President Truman has agreed that all elements of the administration should engage in a campaign of speeches, statements and appeals to inform the public on the hazards of inflation.

Johnston added to a news conference:

"We don't want an economic Pearl Harbor or a Dunkerque. And we don't want a Munich of appeasements."

Johnston had just come from a conference with President Truman.

While Johnston was meeting with reporters at the stabilization agency, Mr. Truman was holding his usual Thursday news conference.

The President also plugged for stronger economic controls, as he has been doing for weeks, but he used much milder language than Johnston did.

Mr. Truman said he hopes the House, beginning debate today on controls legislation, will come up with a workable bill. He has been sharpely critical of the bill the Senate has passed. It would restrict and possibly prevent—price rollbacks.

"Not Political Issue"

Johnston, without directly asking housewives to write their Congressmen, said he was sure that 'if the voters have convictions in this matter, they will communicate with their representatives in Congress."

"This is not a political issue," he insisted, and added:

"I am not blaming any members of Congress. In general they vote their convictions.

"If there is any blame to be fixed, it should be fixed on us. We—me and the ESA—haven't brought home to the people the dangers ahead."

Johnston said an "education" drive is planned aimed at consumers, business, labor and Congress.

He said it would have full White House support.

It will be 'disastrous," Johnston declared, unless Congress gives the administration the power to roll back prices.

Mr. Truman said nothing about an "education" campaign at his meeting with reporters, but he told them he would keep putting forward every effort to get a strong controls bill. He said he did not plan any further formal messages to Congress on the subject.

Criticism of price rollbacks in Congress has centered chiefly on the 10 per cent rollback already made in beef cattle prices and the additional rollbacks the office of

Cool Air Reaches Into Many States

By The Associated Press

Cool, rainy and cloudy weather—a spoiler for many midwest holiday outings yesterday — spread into the eastern states today. Showers hit the eastern Great Lakes region eastward in the New England states. Cooler weather was forecast for the wet belt.

Some showers also fell in parts of South Dakota, Nebraska, Western Iowa and along the upper Rio Grande. But skies were fair in other parts of the country.

It was cool in the Northern Rockies and hot in the southern area. There was some warming in the midwest after yesterday's below normal readings. Hot weather continued over most of the south and far southwest.

Oatis Begins a 10-Yr. Term in Czech Prison

Trial of Reporter For AP 'Travesty On Justice'

WASHINGTON, July 5—(AP)—President Truman said today he agrees that the conviction of Associated Press correspondent William N. Oatis was a Communist attempt to intimidate the free world press.

By Donald Doane

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 5—(AP)—William N. Oatis today began serving a 10-year prison sentence meted out by Communist Czechoslovakia for "spying out state secrets" while doing his job as an Associated Press reporter. The court said "good behavior" might take five years off the sentence.

Oatis, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Prague, and three Czech employes of the bureau were sentenced yesterday in grim Pankrac prison after a two-day trial.

Two U. S. embassy observers, who attended the trial said that after the five-man Red court handed down the sentence, they heard Oatis say faintly:

"I accept the sentence of the court and ask that I be sent somewhere where I can do some useful work."

The three Czech co-defendants, who had been employed mainly as translators, drew heavier sentences. They were:

Thomas Svoboda, 20 years; Pavel Wojdinek, 18 years and Peter Muntz, 16 years. All were stripped of their property and their civil rights for 10 years.

In New York the Associated Press branded the trial as "a sham and a mockery of elemental justice." The AP said legitimate newsgathering had been "twisted and distorted" into espionage and "The Associated Press will continue, by all means available, to seek Oatis' release from this cruel and unjust detention."

Desired True Picture

The U. S. state department labelled the trial a "ludicrous travesty of justice" and declared:

"The confession of espionage was in truth but the admission of an American reporter that in the high traditions of his profession he was attempting under the most unfavorable conditions to report a true picture of conditions and events in Czechoslovakia as he saw them."

Declaring that Czech authorities find any press activity except the transmission of official propaganda to be "espionage," the state department added:

"The Czechoslovak government thus rejects completely the principle of freedom of information. It is presumed that the press of the free world will so view this turning back of the clock."

The Associated Press, which has had an arrangement for exchange of news with the Czech news agency, terminated the pact yesterday.

The state department said the spy charges levelled against Oatis were "part of a propaganda performance against the United States."

It added: "The arrest, the detention for months without access to friend, embassy representative or trusted legal counsel, the forced 'confession' to fabricated charges, the shabby 'conviction' of William N. Oatis show that the present regime in Czechoslovakia fears truth, hates liberty and knows no justice."

Rep. Kersten (R-Wis) condemned Oatis' trial and punishment in a resolution he introduced in the U. S. House of Representatives yesterday.

In St. Paul, Minn., Oatis' wife expressed relief "that the trial is over and the result is known."

"The past two and a half months of waiting have been quite a strain," she said. "I'm looking forward now to the day when William is released and can return to this country."

Replies to Questions

Oatis' answers to questions at his trial and the testimony of other witnesses indicated his "espionage" activity consisted of:

1. Receiving messages from AP bureaus in London and New York asking him to check reports already published in the outside world about arrests, dismissals and other events in Czechoslovakia.

2. Making notes, presumably for future use as background in news stories, which had not been officially released by the Czech government. According to Communist reasoning, nearly anything not released in an official handout or not carried by the official

Armstrong is Speaker at Kiwanis Club

Stresses 'Peace With Justice and Honor' in Talk

O. K. Armstrong, Springfield, U. S. Representative from Missouri's Sixth District, was guest speaker at the Kiwanis club's luncheon at the Bothwell hotel today. He spoke on "Peace with Justice and Honor."

President T. H. Yount opened the meeting and L. M. Lavelle, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

In his talk Mr. Armstrong stressed the United States responsiblity of world leadership in the face of Communist aggression. He added that there are differences of opinion in Washington both along party lines and within the respective parties, but that there was no difference of opinion about the responsibility of America's role in the world leadership.

He explained the Communist method of obtaining control of a country through transparent promises: through subterfuge by way of infiltration using a "milk and honey" ideological campaign. He showed the flaws in these promises and then cited incidents showing the final outcome of the campaign and its resulting ill effect on the peoples.

"The challenge of the Communist ideology is a real and terrifying one," he continued, "and the only way to meet armed aggression is with the military might of the free peoples of the world."

"Democracy and totalitarianism cannot mix together in a peaceful world." He explained that one must prevail.

It taking up the Korean question Mr. Armstrong, a Republican, mentioned his recent visit to Korea, Formosa and Japan in the company of W. J. Doran, Representative from South Carolina, a Democrat. He said that he had talked to General Douglas MacArthur, General Matthew Ridgway and the country's fighting men while there.

Talked of Possible Peace

He brought up the question of an honorable peace in Korea. He said that it cannot be obtained if we stop at the 38th parallel and then let those who led the aggression against South Korea go free. "You cannot stamp out aggression by allowing the aggressor to ramain free."

He concluded that if difficulties arise in Europe that they will be met by the free people's strongest weapon, truth.

Of local importance, Representative Armstrong remarked that he is going to report to the Congress on the Sedalia Air Base and had information in his possession that would enable him to give a full report of the Base's needs whenever he is called upon to do so before the appropriation committee.

Mr. Armstrong was accompanied to Sedalia by his son, O. K. Armstrong, Jr., who was a guest at the luncheon. Other guests were: Martin Pope, Guy Peabody, Leonard Peabody, D. S. Lamm and Del Heckart, both guests of T. H. Yount; Don Mullins, Miami, Mo., William Davis, Napton, P. J. Behrens, Mora, Porter Henry, Sedalia, Otto Pinkepank, Sweet Springs, Mayor Herb Studer, Sedalia, T. J. Raines, Nelson, John Sneed, Sedalia, J. T. Harris, all guests of L. M. Lavelle; M. H. Sagaloff, guest of Bob Wall; Cline Cain, guest of Ed McLaughlin; Al Pringle, Sedalia, guest of Arthur Klang; Mrs. E. F. Yancey and Mrs. Clyde Heynen; K. U. Love, guest of C. R. Roose; C. J. Mason, Warrensburg and Raymond Rollins, Warrensburg, both guests of J. C. Griffin; Jack Allgaier, guest of Jack Allgaier, Sr., W. B. Rich, Sedalia, guest of Mike Giokaris; the Rev. H. U. Campbell, Lexington, guest of Howard Roberts and Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, guest of A. H. Wilks.

No Special 'Hullabaloo' as Mo. Mayor Reaches 'Gay Paree'

PARIS, July 5—(AP)—Guy M. Reed, mayor of Paris, Mo., arrived today—an event that aroused no special fuss in Paris, France.

He and Mrs. Reed took the boat-train to the St. Lazare railroad station, just like any couple of tourists. There was nobody but a reporter to greet them.

The Missouri mayor said it was his first European trip, but Ms. Reed corrected him—how about World War One?"

"Oh Yes," he agreed, "but I spent most of my time up in the Argonne forest. Never did get to Paris."

One o fthe first things he wants to see is the American Legion Post Number one, established in Paris just after World War I.

Reed runs a babychick hatchery in Paris, a town of about 1,400 population. He has been reelected seven times at the salary paid ever since the town was founded in the 1830's—$50 a year.

'It's all that income that makes it possible for me to come over," he said with a smile. "The city is paying my salary even while I'm gone."

Paris, France, is making an effort this year to bring over as many as possible of the mayors of towns named Paris in the U. S. An honorary mayor of Paris, New York, has been here for several weeks. It's all part of the publicity on the 2000th anniversary of the French capital.

Reed said he was told that he would find a full program of ceremonies and receptions when he reached his hotel room, but that all he had was the name of the hotel. He has no knowledge of French.

"We know only one couple at home that can speak it at all," said Mrs. Reed.

He does have a recommendation from the French Embassy in Washington that permits him to carry a colt revolver in his baggage. That got him through customs in 15 minutes instead of half an hour.

The Reeds plan to take two weeks travelling about after their week in Paris. They may take a side-trip to Switzerland before leaving from England July 27 on the Liberte.

Children Die In Ship Blast

Explosion in East Berlin Behind the Iron Curtain Today

BERLIN, July 5 —(AP)— The Communist government of East Berlin announced 25 children died in the explosion of an excursion boat on the Spree river today.

The ship, a barge, carried 120 children on a holiday outing sponsored by the Communist Free German youth. Its engine blew up and spread fire through the vessel. At least 60 of the children were injured but most were released after first aid treatment.

The Communist government did not say whether the dead children lost their lives through drowning or were killed in the explosion.

BERLIN, July 5—(AP)—A ship carrying at least 120 children exploded in the Spree river behind East Berlin's iron curtain today. Many may have been killed and injured, but Communist "people's police" pushed aside all inquiries about casualties.

Rumors reaching West Berlin said dozens of the children were killed. Residents of the area near the scene of the explosion said at least 60 children were given treatment for cuts and burns.

The ship blew up at a point not far from the Soviet memorial park in Treptow. Communist police kept crowds from getting near the area.

All the Communist police would say was that there had been 120 children aboard the excursion boat when its boiler exploded, and that the children were from an East Berlin "people's school."

Lowest Holiday Toll For Years

By The Associated Press

The nation celebrated July 4th with one of the lowest holiday traffic death tolls in recent years.

Accidental deaths totaled 201 for the 30-hour period from 6 p. m. (local time) Tuesday to midnight Wednesday.

The latest breakdown showed 103 traffic deaths, 54 drownings, five deaths from fireworks and 39 from miscellaneous accidents.

The traffic toll was well below the 130 which the National Safety Council had predicted would die on the nation's highways.

A factor was cool, rainy or cloudy weather, which cut down travel in many parts of the country.

Barkleys to be At Fair Aug. 22

Vice President to Speak at Country Ham Breakfast

The Barkleys are coming.

Vice president Alben W. Barkley and Mrs. Barkley, the former Jane Rucker Hadley, will be among the distinguished personages at the Missouri State fair on Governor's Day, August 22 when Governor Forrest Smith and party will be at the exposition.

Vice President Barkley will deliver a talk at a Missouri country ham breakfast to be served to about 700 persons as the initial activities of that day, which is also designated as Kansas City day.

Mrs. Barkley as Jane Rucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Rucker, spent her younger days in Sedalia and her return for this occasion will doubtless be a most happy one for her and friends of her school days.

Walter H. Atzenweiler, agricultural commissioner of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, and others on the Kansas City day committee are planning to have the largest delegation from that city to ever visit the fair.

The Kansas City Saddle and Sirloin club mounted patrol is to appear at the afternoon's racing program and before the two night revues. These include a horse show and a Cavalcade of Stars stage show and water ballet.

Tickets for all events, including the ham breakfast, are on sale at the Chamber of Commerce offices in Kansas City.

Evacuation By Boats for Many Forced

Embankment of Railway Breaks Near St. Charles

ST. CHARLES, Mo., July 5—(AP)—The rampaging Missouri river broke through a railroad embankment levee north of here today and sent its muddy flood waters pouring over 15,000 more acres of rich bottomland.

More than 100 workmen had patrolled the Missouri-Kansas-Texas levee through the night, alert for any water boring and opening. Just when victory appeared to be in sight the break through came.

Sheriff Lester Plackmeyer said the levee failed about 6 a. m. When he got there he said the break was about 10 feet wide but 40 minutes later it had widened to100 feet and flood waters surged through. He estimated that about 15,000 acres would be flooded. About 24,000 acres in St. Charles county already was under water.

Three Coast Guard boats were put to work evacuating families isolated by rising waters. The Red Cross estimated several hundred families may be cut off in the eastern part of the county.

More than 50 homes in the northern part of St. Charles were partly under water. Railway traffic over the Katy tracks, which forms the levee fronting the river for four miles north of here, has been discontinued for several days.

Twenty-eight levee workers, marooned down river from the Katy embankment break, were taken off in fishermen's boats by the Coast Guard. Floor waters were expected to cover state highway 94 about three miles north of here by the end of the day.

Agricultural officials estimated crop losses in St. Charles county due to the flood would be at least $2,000,000.

The river stood at 36.3 feet at St. Charles this morning. This was a rise of three-tenths of a foot since yesterday. The weather bureau at St. Louis thought the river had just about reached its crest here.

Upstream at Herman in Gasconade county the Missouri had started falling slowly and further up at Boonville it had dropped nearly a foot from its crest of 29.4 feet there.

The area through which the water began surging this morning is the rich farmland in the crotch of a Y formed by the meeting of the Missouri and the Mississippi river. The break through sent the flood waters roaring on a short cut to meet the Mississippi.

The Missouri did the same thing in the disastrous flood of 1944 when it crested at 36.5 feet.

M-K-T Detours Freight Trains

Flood Waters in This Region Have Been Receding

Recent rains have brought many of the small streams in this vicinity back out of their banks and have halted or impaired traffic in several parts of the state.

The Lamine river crested about midnight Wednesday with the water seven feet over the flood stage. At a later check this morning the river had fallen to 20.98 feet, but S. F. Needy river guage checker said that fast rising small tributaries would put the river back up later this afternoon.

The highways in this locale with the exception of 65 at Waverly and 127 south of Sweet Springs were open.

The M.K.T. railroad has stopped all passenger service and their freight trains were being routed over Missouri Pacific and Wabash lines. Going south the M.K.T. had routed the freights over the Missouri Pacific to Pleasant Green where they returned to their own lines and at New Franklin the trains were being sent to Moberly to reach St. Louis over the Wabash lines.

It was reported that Flat creek had risen four feet the past two days and flood waters which had just recently settled into the river banks were once again rising to the top. At the Lamine, water was out over the crops once more but all the damage possible to them had been done by previous floods.

And with rains once more driving rivers from their beds the weather reports for the next fews days again prophesied rain.

B-36s Back to Home Base

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 5—(AP)—Three B-36s, the first to fly over the European continent, returned to their home at Carswell air base today after smooth nonstop flights across the Atlantic.

The bombers landed here at 8:42 a. m., 9:04 and 9:50 a. m. CST.

The lead plane, carrying the flag commander, Col. John A. Roberts, commanding officer of the 7th bomb wing at Carswell, touched the runway here 27 hours and 42 minutes after taking off from Lakenheath air field near London.

The flight was the second made by B-36s to England. Six of the bombers flew there and back in January.

But the mission completed today, described officially as a routine long-range navigation training flight, was the first in history that sent the mighty planes over the European continent.

The three ships Sunday flew for about seven hours over the continent, dipping low over Paris, Brussels and The Hague.

Propose Levy Of Sales Tax

WASHINGTON, July 5—(AP)—The National Association of Manufacturers today urged tax-writing Senators to levy a manufacturers' excise (sales) tax on possibly as much as $18,000,000,000 to balance the budget.

The proposal ran into a cool reception from several influential members of the finance committee.

The plan was outlined by Charles R. Sligh, Jr., Holland, Mich., furniture maker and chairman of the MAM taxation committee. He opposed any increases in the present level of corporation income taxes and asked that individual income tax increases be held to "moderate levels."

To Conference on Church Education

Also making the trip were Mr. Salveter's daughter, Charlotte Salveter and Catherine Ann Drake.

Reds Today Shot At Two UN Patrols As They Neared Ancient Capital

By Olen Clements

TOKYO, July 5—(AP)—Arrangements were made today for Communist and Allied truce envoys to meet in peace Sunday. But that didn't stop the shooting in Korea.

Today Reds shot at two United Nations patrols as they approached Kaesong, war-scarred ancient capital of Korea where cease-fire talks will be held. Yesterday they had permitted one patrol to enter the deserted city near the 38th parallel.

U. N. Commander Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway still sought a guarantee from the Communists they would not fire in similar fashion on the emissaries he will send to Kaesong Sunday.

That one hitch remains to be settled before representatives of the opposing top commands can meet. And when they do get together it will be merely to make plans for the real cease-fire conference. That will be Tuesday.

Thursday passed without word that Chinese and North Korean commanders had guaranteed safe conduct to the U. N. delegation.

"Continue Defenses"

Instead the Reds' Peiping radio said the success of cease-fire talks "depends on whether the U. S. government and other governments taking part in the Korean war are sincere." And it told the Chinese that even after the shooting ends in Korea they must continue to build defenses to guard against American "attempts at aggression."

Thursday morning Ridgway agreed to the Red suggestion that preliminary talks be held Sunday. Reliable sources said he would send three colonels—a marine, an airman and a South Korean. Two interpreters will accompany them.

Ridgway asked that the Communist generals guarantee them safe conduct to the meeting in no-man's-land.

Earlier he had pledged his forces wouldn't shoot at the Red delegation, if their route was announced.

American battle casualties increased 1,361 this week to a wartime total of 78,110 the defense department announced in Washington.

Battle Action Reduced

Battle action dwindled as armistice talks drew nearer. But Reds opened up Thursday with the heaviest artillery and mortar fire they've used on the western front in a week. Their guns stopped shooting in the east where they've daily harassed Allied lines.

Chinese stabbed at U. N. lines with three minor probing attacks. But almost everywhere they pulled back from Allied patrols.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force sent only 210 sorties against the Reds in daylight Thursday. Only 20 of these hit near battle lines. One Mustang fighter was shot down by Red antiaircraft.

U. N. ground troops made two noteworthy movements.

A South Korean patrol pushed up the east coast under the protecting cover of naval guns to a point 40 miles north of the 38th parallel. That is the deepest U. N. penetration of Red Korea this year.

Two powerful Allied task forces on the central front began a slow withdrawal from the northern end of the Chorwon-Kumhwa-Pyonggang iron triangle, taking U. N. outposts with them. They had pushed 24 miles north of the 38th parallel and driven Chinese from the triangle's dominating hills three miles south of Pyonggang.

One U. N. patrol probed into Kaesong beyond the western front Wednesday and found it deserted. A second patrol ran into Red troops two miles east of the ancient Korean capital.

Other patrols combed the Kaesong area Thursday. Behind them bulldozers smoothed out the rutted and war churned road over which U. N. cease-fire emissaries may travel from Seoul to ceasefire talks in Kaesong.

The weather will determine whether Ridgway's representatives at Sunday's meeting travel by jeep or helicopter. If the weather is good they will fly.

Three helicopters probably will be used. But the air force was reported considering using a huge H-19 helicopter capable of carrying eight persons.

Conjecture on Emissaries

Identity of those to make the trip has not been disclosed. The emissaries will be three officers, none of higher rank than a colonel. Their job will be to work out arrangements for the actual armistice talks, to be held in Kaesong Tuesday.

They will be accompanied by two interpreters and their pilots or jeep drivers. If they travel by Police are conducting an investigation.

Injured When Auto Wrecked

A 1948 Ford coach of Virgil Bryan, Jr., 27, of Otterville, was badly wrecked, and Bryan suffered painful injuries when his car turned over one and a half times on Highway 50 just east of the Smithton intersection. The accident occurred about 10:30 p. m. Wednesday, and was the only one of a serious nature in the Sedalia area of the State Highway Patrol.

Mr. Bryain was accompanied by his wife Mrs. June Bryan and their two children Terry 5, and Tona, one and a half, all who suffered nothing more than a good shaking up.

The accident occurred according to a report given State Trooper Pete Stohr by Bryan, when he started to pass a car at the same time a car ahead of him pulled out to pass. Bryan reported he swerved and in some manner struck the left rear fender of a 1939 Chervolet coach driven by William T. Darrah, 21, 521 West Fourth, and then went off the north side of the highway and back across the pavement and down into a ditch on the southside.

The car "flipped" over one and a half times practically demolishing the body of the vehicle.

The car being passed was driven by Kenneth Meyers, Otterville, whose car was not struck by either of the other two vehicles.

With Darrah at the time was Charles Henderson, 1411 South Quincy and both escaped injury.

How to make Wise Tracks to a Beauty

How do you buy a new car?

Are you one of those people who buy on love at first sight?

Or do you check cars feature for feature, price for price—then pick the one that gives you the most for your money?

Whichever you are, we'd like to suggest that you come in and see our 1951 Buicks.

It's a sure bet that you'll go for the swift, smart look of a SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—you'll fall seriously in love with the pace and power of its bonnet-filling engine.

And it's a cinch you'll go for the room and richness of those Buick interiors – the serene smoothness of Dynaflow Drive* and all-coil springing.

But don't let your emotion be the only judge – be sure to get the practical picture too.

Note that the power that gives you such a big kick here comes from Buick's famed valve-in-head Fireball Engine—which means you get a lot of miles from each gallon of gas you buy.

Note that the silken ease you enjoy with Dynaflow* goes hand in hand with real money savings in maintenance costs.

Above all, note what a Buick's price tag includes – how much more sheer automobile you get in a Buick than the same money would buy elsewhere.

How about making tracks to our showroom right soon—checking thoroughly into the matter—and see if you don't fall in love with a smart-buy Buick?

Tune in HENRY J. TAYLOR, ABC Network, every Monday evening.

Ice Cream Licks Spoon For 100th Birthday Tune

By Richard Kleiner
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK —(NEA)— Happy birthday to you, happy birthday to you, happy birthday dear chocolate, vanilla, strawberry and butter pecan, happy birthday to you!

This year is the 100th anniversary of the invention of ice cream, and it is an event that should be treated with respect.

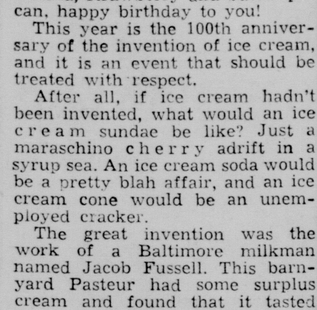
After all, if ice cream hadn't been invented, what would an ice cream sundae be like? Just a maraschino cherry adrift in a syrup sea. An ice cream soda would be a pretty blah affair, and an ice cream cone would be an unemployed cracker.

The great invention was the work of a Baltimore milkman named Jacob Fussell. This barnyard Pasteur had some surplus cream and found that it tasted pretty good frozen and flavored. It still does.

But consider how a whim of fate has changed the course of our culinary civilization. There was old Jake in the barnyard with a couple of quarts of cream. What to do with it?

Luckily, he thought first of freezing it cold. But suppose the idea had come to him to cook it and serve it hot. It could have been that way, just as easily.

Today, things around the neighborhood drugstore would have been quite different. It would be empty in Summer and very busy in Winter. People would come in and ask for a dish of hot cream. Instead of syrups like chocolate and strawberry, maybe a hot cream sundae would be flavored with different gravies like chicken or beef.



They wouldn't be garnished with a cherry and whipped cream, but with, perhaps, a curlicue of pimento or a boiled potato. No banana splits, of course, but maybe a hot dog a la mode.

And, in the dead of winter, a little truck with a built-in heating unit and a set of bells would come jangling by to sell hot cream. That would be the Ill Humor man.

But, fortunately, Fussell turned first to thoughts of freezing his extra cream. And today, with the industry he created ending its first century, it's time to evaluate ice cream's contributions to our way of life.

The ice cream industry, employing thousands of people, is a profitable one. Everything is frozen but its assets.

Ice cream, in turn, has created other industries, such as cone making, straws, syrups and diet experts.

Ice cream has helped to cut the nation's lawns. A payment to the brat next door will make him mow your lawn. Why does he want the money? For a Super Atomic - De Luxe-Special-Caloric-Marshmallow Sundae.

Ice cream has improved the nation's speech. Speech instructors say a mobile tongue is vital to good diction. And there's no exercise as good for the tongue as licking a double ice cream cone. Darting after a drop down the side of the cone is wonderful practice for a rolling "r".

Ice cream has, in fact, had a tremendous influence on the economic, social and morale life of the world. If it weren't for Jake Fussell and his bright idea, we'd be living in an ice-creamless age, which is an unpleasant prospect.

So lift your spoons on high and eat this toast to ice cream:

Here's a wish that's most heartfelt:
May ice cream prosper and never melt.

radio and newspapers, can be construed as espionage.

3. Trying to check on routine arrivals and departures of political personalities at the Prague airport.

4. Sending employes to Karlovy Vary (Karlsbad), a Czech health resort, to run down world wide rumors that high Soviet officials were staying there.

5. Visiting western diplomatic missions and exchanging information with them on political, economic and military developments.

All these activities are standard practice for newsmen in western countries.

Oatis, 37-year-old Marion, Ind., newsman, has been employed by the Associated Press since 1937. He spent four years of this period, during World War II, in the U. S. army.

He was arrested by secret police on April 23. Since then no representative of the Associated Press or the United States government has been able to talk with him. The embassy never was able to get a copy of the indictment.

Led into the courtroom without his glasses at the opening of his trial Monday, Oatis, who is nearsighted, told the court he had engaged in espionage. He appeared pale and strained and spoke slowly, as though reciting memorized lines.

He denied a government charge that he had taken over an espionage center when he came to Prague in June, 1950. The government had declared that the AP's Prague bureau was a spy center, not only under Oatis, but beginning in 1947.

Th Communist prosecutor charged Oatis was a link in a spy chain including not only the Associated Press, but other western news agencies and diplomats.

All other western correspondents have left Czechoslovakia or have been expelled.

Nine Guilty in Scandal Over Fixing Games

Basketball Stars Enter Pleas of Guilty in Court

NEW YORK, July 5—(AP)—Nine former college basketball stars pleaded guilty today to conspiracy charges in connection with the fixing of basketball games at Madison Square Garden.

The charges grew out of the alleged point-fixing of 16 games in which teams from New York University, Long Island University and the College of the City of New York were involved.

The former college athletes entered their pleas before Judge Saul S. Streit in general sessions court. Five other accused players were in the court when the nine made their guilty pleas.

The conspiracy charge is a misdemeanor. All 14 former players also have bribery charges—a felony pending against them. There were strong indications, however, that by pleading guilty to the lesser charge, the athletes escaped prosecution on the more serious count.

The nine who pleaded today were Alvin Roth, Edward Roman, Edward Warner, Floyd Layne, Norman Mager, Irwin Dambrot and Herbert Cohen, all former City College players; Harvey (Connie) Schaff, former NYU player, and Louis Lipman, one-time LIU star.

Roth and Roman pleaded guilty to two counts each of conspiracy, one relating to Salvatore T. Sollazzo, alleged master fixer of the betting plot, and another involving Eli Klukofsky, a second accused fixer.

Warner, Layne and Schaff pleaded to a single conspiracy count. It charged them with conspiring with Sollazzo to rig the scores of games. Mager, Cohen and Dambrot pleaded to a similar count involving Klukofsky.

Lipman's plea was in connection with his conspiracy with still another alleged fixer, Jackie Goldsmith, former teammate of Lipman at LIU.

The explayers could be sentenced to a year in jail on each conspiracy count or, as an alternative, to indeterminate prison terms. Bribery charges carry a maximum five years penalty on each count.

The athletes were arrested earlier this year and charged with conspiring with gamblers to guarantee the "point spread" on college basketball games. Most of the games were played at Madison Square Garden. By juggling the margin by which games were won or lost, gamblers were able to cash in on "sure thing" betting.

Man The Oars

Residents on West Maple street in Wichita, Kas., got unexpected rowing practice July 2 when a broken levee sent the Big Arkansas river flood waters rolling down into low areas along Wichita's west edge. Cease-Fire Talks Be Held on Sunday July 8 at Kaesong road they will go in three jeeps, each flying a white flag.

AP Correspondent Stan Carter drove over much of that road Wednesday without seeing a sign of a Red soldier.

The route runs across a pontoon bridge hurriedly erected across the Imjin river by American engineers after Red generals first proposed meeting in Kaesong. It runs through a no-man's-land brown from ripening wheat and green from newly planted rice.

Correspondent Carter found Koreans working in the fields as though war were a thousand miles away. The mud houses of their thatched roofs appeared to be undamaged, although opposing armies have three times rumbled up or down that road within the last year.

Associated Press Correspondent Nate Polowetzky said there was an air of repressed excitement around U. S. Eighth Army headquarters as preparations were pushed for cease fire talks.

A spokesman said only routine patrols roamed the front Thursday. The air force made its usual wide sweeps after 625 sorties Wednesday. Bridges were prime targets. Sixteen were knocked out Wednesday.

A war-shattered railroad bridge will keep the U. N.'s 19-car peace train from going to Kaesong for the armistice meeing. The train is ready with its crew standing by, in Seoul's battered rail yards. It will go only as far as Munsan, south of the Imjin river on the road to Kaesong. There it will serve as a barracks on wheels for negotiators.

There was some speculation in Tokyo that New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey might be included in the final armistice negotiations. He spent several hours talking with General Ridgway Thursday. They met shortly after the U. N. commander agreed to a preliminary meeting Sunday instead of today as he had proposed.

Ridgway's message was radioed at 10:30 a. m. (7:30 p. m. Wednesday, EST) to North Korean Gen. Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai.

price stabilization has announced it intends to make later.

Not Consider Compromise

Mr. Truman was asked if he has been considering a compromise with the cattle raisers on price rollbacks. He replied that he never had any such idea.

He said he had wanted to see that the cattlemen had a fair hearing on their objections to beef price rollbacks.

Johnson announced at a news conference his plans for an "education campaign" on price controls.

He said that if Congress passes a final defense production act written on lines of the present 31-day extension if could mean price boosts of five to seven per cent in the next year.

"This could mean a $12,000,000,000 to $14,000,000,000 increase in the cost of living to consumers of this country," he went on.

Vanderbilt Field is Held In Contempt

Refused Names Of Ones Putting Up $80,000 Bond

NEW YORK, July 5—(AP)—A federal judge held millionaire Frederick Vanderbilt Field in contempt of court today when he refused to divulge the names of individuals who put up $80,000 bond for the four runaway convicted Communist leaders.

Judge Sylvester J. Ryan acted after he repeatedly had ordered Field, secretary of the Civil Rights Congress bail fund, to produce the names of the contributors.

Field is left-wing descendant of a family long prominent in the nation's financial and social circles.

He is a a direct descendant of Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt who founded the family fortune in the 19th century by establishing the Staten Island ferry in New York harbor. Investments in railroads produced more money for the family which is one of the nation's most prominent in financial and social circles.

Before adjudging Field in contempt, the judge called a five-minute recess to permit the Civil Rights Congress official to conger with his lawyer.

Order Diplomats Leave Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary July 5—(AP)—Hungary today ordered two United States diplomats to leave this country within 24 hours, labelling them "persona non grata" (unwelcome persons.)

The note was handed to the U. S. legation after the United States rejected Hungary's previous demand that three members of the legation be recalled as plotters against this country's Communist government.

The two diplomats involved must cross the Hungarian border into Austria by Friday at 1 p. m.

The Hungarian note said that Budapest "considers legation secretary Albert Scherer, Jr., and attache Ruth Tryon persona non grata and demands that they they leave the territory of the country within 24 hours upon receipt of the present note." It added that the Hungarian government also "considers undesirable the legation official Mary Eich."

Miss Eich left Budapest last week on home leave. The Hungarian note said Miss Eich, now staying in Vienna, would not be granted entry any more into Hungary.

Roy "Dutch" Kirchoffer and Leo Sullivan were both fined $200.00 and costs and Walter Johnson was fined $100.00 and costs.

Johnson's fine was less than the other two because of his first offense.

Kirchoffer and Sullivan were both in court but Johnson was represented by his counsel, Henry Salveter.

Attorney for the other two defendants was Henry Salveter.

All these men were arrested after raids Monday afternoon on several business establishments where gambling equipment was found.

Czech Official Harangues Guild President

Jan Vinar (left), charge d' affaires of the Czech embassy in Washington, tells Harry Martin, president of the American Newspaper Guild July 3, that the embassy rejects as "insulting" a protest by the guild which accused Communist Czechoslovakia of extorting a "phony confession" of espionage from AP Correspondent William Oatis. Vinar told Martin the protest contained "outrageous and insulting language" and that he would not pass it along to his government in Prague. (AP Wirephoto)

CONTEST IN THE BAG—Claiming that too many judges of "beautiful legs" contests are "distracted" by beautiful faces or shapely figures, finalists in the sixth annual "Beautiful Legs" contest at Palisades Park, N. Raises Worms For Fighting Of Disease

By Hal Boyle

PEARL RIVER, N. Y.,—(AP)—Amid 20,000 snails and 25,000 white mice a scientist here is raising worms to try to wipe out a disease afflicting 144,000 people.

That is about one out of every 15 persons alive on this earth.

Yet you probably never even heard of the disease. It is called schistosomiasis. It is prevalent in Puerto Rico, South America and the Orient. In some areas of Africa and Egypt 80 per cent of the population have it, and in acute cases it is often fatal.

The villains are tropical worms known as schistosomes. Under a small power microscope a female worm looks like a miniature, over-ripened banana. The male worm looks like a Brooklyn Dodger baseball fan with his team trailing 8-to-1 in the 9th inning—bent over and pale.

The scientist fighting them is Dr. Redginal Hewitt, at 40 one of the great worm men of the century. Several years ago, after testing more than 1,000 preparations, he perfected the drug hetrazan, newest weapon against another age-old tropical worm scourge—elephantiasis.

"So far we've spent $200,000 in the last three years and tried some 5,000 different compounds looking for something to whip schistosomiasis—and that may be only a drop in the bucket," Hewitt said cheerfully. "All we've got so far are a few interesting leads—but we'll find the answer."

The task is made more difficult by the complicated life cycle of the schistosomes. They are parasites which require two hosts—usually human beings and a certain kind of small water snail.

Hatch in Snails

The worm embryos in the snails and escape into the water. Human beings are infected by drinking the water or bathing in it. The worms mature in the body and their eggs pierce blood vessels. Often causing internal hemorrhages. After being discharged by the body, the eggs whip through creeks in search of another lazy, hospitable snail in which to continue their cycle.

Dr. Hewitt's way of short-cutting his attack of the problem has been to use white mice instead of human beings as the primary hosts for the worms. It is easier and safer to test compounds with them.

His 20,000 snails and 25,000 white mice—the mice cost 26 cents each and he wears out 800 a week—are housed in the giant Lederle laboratories here, some 30 miles from Manhattan. They are cared for by two technicians—Ann Greening and Fred Linderman.

Linderman sometimes wonders what he will say when one of his three young children gets around to asking about his job.

"How can I explain what a snail farmer does?" he asked.

Miss Greening used to share the average woman's deathly fear of mice. After three years of working with them, she now handles them as fearlessly as if they were baby kittens.

Despite the 25,000 mice stacked in cages around its walls, there is no mouse trap in the laboratory.

"If one gets loose we just have to catch it," said Linderman grimly. "It might be infected."

Dr. Hewitt is mulling over some historic statement to make if and when he discovers a drug to destroy schistosomiasis. Scientists at such epochal moments are supposed to say something striking—such as "eureka."

But he is still taking a ribbing from his colleagues for his remark when he first found the drug in 1945 that spells hope for more than 200,000,000 sufferers of limb-swelling elephantiasis.

"Well, I'll be —— ——!"

Recalling that remark, he said with a grin:

"Next time I hope to have something more quotable ready."

Rev. Acree Sells His Residence

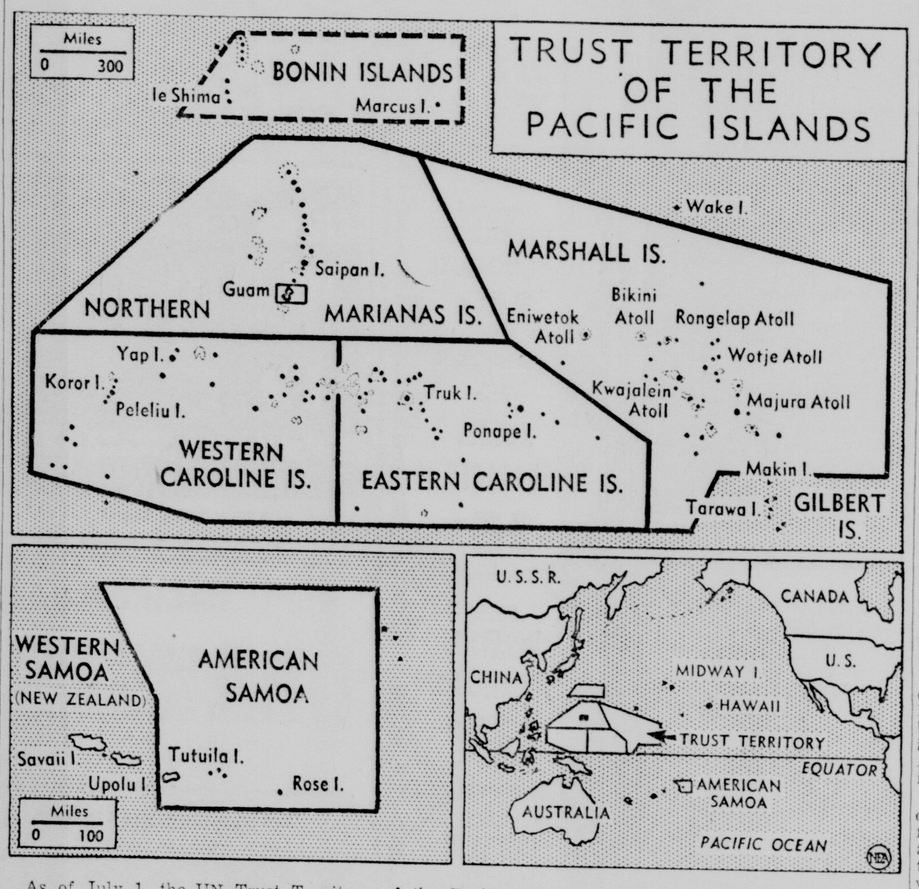
Navy Washes Pacific Isles Out of Its Hair—



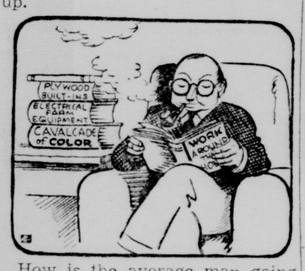
As of July 1, the UN Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands passed from U. S. Navy government to civil administration under the Department of Interior. Map above shows the territory and its five political districts. Guam is not included in the territory, being a possession of the U. S. The Bonin islands remain under naval government. Insert map, left, shows American Samoa, which is in process of being transferred from military to civilian government. Insert map at right shows location of the territory and other islands in relation to Asia and the Western Hemisphere. Japan held the territory islands prior to and during World War II. After the war, the U. S. accepted UN trusteeship for them, taking responsibility for the economic and cultural advancement of the people and protection of their freedom.

ON THE HOUSE

By DAVID G. BAREUTHER
AP Real Estate Editor

By David G. Bareuther
AP Real Estate Editor

It costs so much to get work done around our house these days that it behooves us to acquire all the know-how we can get on house maintenance. Such knowledge is power, whether we attempt to do the work ourselves, or merely use the facts as a means of checking up.



How is the average man going to know whether he should use Grade A, B, C, or D lumber for a certain job, or No. 1 or 2 Common—ans whether he is getting the grade he pays for?

And when it comes to buying equipment, is it necessary to be limited in choice to the few makes selected by chance by your neighbors? If not, how can you find out about others?

One of the biggest supplies of general information on home repair and upkeep is the Government Printing Office in Washington. Its output embraces bulletins compiled by engineers and other experts for the Housing and Home Finance Agency, the Department of Commerce, Interior and Agriculture and their various subdivisions such as the Bureau of Standards, the Forest Products Laboratory, etc.

For example, in connection with the lumber grading problem mentioned above, Farmer's Bulletin 1756 on the "Selection of Lumber" can be had for 15 cents and in its 40-some pages it offers more information than anyone but an expert will be able to remember.

The easier way to take advantage of this vast supply of facts is to write to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., and get a copy of the price list entitled "Publications of Interest to Suburbanites and Home Builders." Most of the pamphlets listed are available from 10 to 25 cents per copy. But when you order them, send a check or money order. The government has no use for its own stamps.

Local lumber dealers also often stock various publications on the use of lumber—how to make things, and so on.

The Douglas Fir Plywood Association, Tacoma Building, Tacoma 2, Wash., has just published "A Portfolio of Architectural Designs for Plywood Built-ins," available for 10 cents.

The Western Pine Association, 510 Yeon Building, Portland 4, Ore., publishes working plans for the make-it-yourself fan, which are available for the asking.

A 32-page booklet of working drawings on "Electrical Farm Equipment You can Build" was brought out recently by the Westinghouse Electric Corp., 306 Fourth Ave., Pittsburgh 30, Pa. This also is available without charge.

The high cost of printing, however, has compelled many manufacturers to charge nominal amounts for some of their literature. This is the case especially where color plates are involved such as in booklets from carpet makers and paint manufacturers. In regard to the latter, a very complete painting guide including estimating tables is published by the Devoe & Raynolds Co., for 50 cents.

The color enthusiast, however, will find a more ambitious book of more than 200 pages, including 175 full color plates, at $5 published by the Keystone Varnish Co., 71 Otsego St., Brooklyn 31, N. Y. This book, called the "Cavalcade of Color," actually costs $12 per copy to publish.

On the other hand, a handy and informative booklet on shellac, how to cut it and use it, can be had for the asking from the Shellac Information Bureau, 65 Pine St., New York 5, N. Y.

"Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness"

Our Declaration of Independence had its beginning 175 years ago in a period of oppressive taxation when foreign ideas were being forced upon a free people.

It declares that "men . . . are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness." It also states that governments are set up to derive "their just powers from the consent of the governed"!

The government is the SERVANT . . . NOT THE MASTER, said the brave men who took their lives in their hands when they signed this remarkable Declaration.

Today the principles of this great document are in grave danger. Communists, socialists and political termites are boring into our American system, trying to take the reins of government away from the people. There are those who would regiment and over-tax us for false security. They would substitute foreign ISMS for the American Way that has led the world.

The time has come to meet these false ideas with the same determination and bravery of our forefathers.

Let us add our signatures to theirs . . . at least in our hearts and actions.

EVIL FOR WEEVILS—Astride his converted tractor, E. E. Perry, of Henderson, Tex., demonstrates his "dream" invention that he says will exterminate boll weevils. Perry, a 30-acre tenant farmer, says the idea for the complicated machine (circled in photo) came to him in a dream. The tank is filled with an insecticide made to his own formula. This flows down through twin tunnels past the tractor's hot exhaust pipes. The heat vaporizes the liquid which is then sprayed through nozzles onto the rows of cotton.

Chris Skadal Winner of Race Event

Sets IMCA Record For Stock Cars on Mile Dirt Track

Chris Skadal, Des Moines, Ia., driving an 88-Oldsmobile coach, set up a new world's record for stockcars on the mile track of races sponsored by the International Motor Contest Association, when he won the 100-mile race at the Missouri State Fair grounds, Wednesday afternoon. Skadal circled the mile oval 100 times in 1 hour 38 minutes and 53.87 seconds. It was the first time the IMCA has sanctioned stock car races on the mile track.

Fast Time Trial

Skadal also displayed his knowledge of handling a stock car and getting speed out of it by making the fastest time in the time trials. His time for the mile was 55.84 seconds.

The race for the first 65 miles appeared to be shaping up into a fight for first place between Skadal and Eddie Anderson, Grinnell, Ia., who was piloting a 1951 V-8 Chrysler club coupe. About the 66 lap Skadal passed Anderson for the first lap, and two laps later Anderson had to pull into the pit when his battery was shorted out. A hood brace had broken loose, dropped down across the battery and burned a cable. He was out of the race for more than ten laps. He returned to finish out the run, but failed to finish in the prize money.

Averts Curve Crash

As he was starting his car by being pushed by a truck, the motor failed to start and rather than go into the south curve and cause a possible pile up of cars he suddenly swerved off into the infield. After other repairs were completed, George Chamberlin used his wrecker to push the car back onto the track and around the oval finally getting the Chrysler underway again.

An 88-Oldsmobile also placed in second position with Bob McKim, Abilene, Kans., at the wheel of the 1950 model car. McKim took up a steady pace and maintained it throughout the 100 miles.

Third place was won by Don White, Keokuk, Ia., who was behind the wheel of a 1949 Ford: Ernie Deer, Ft. Madison, Ia., piloting a 1950 Mercury was the fourth place winner; Chug Montgomery, Lebanon, Mo., in a 1951 Oldsmobile placed fifth; Rodney Carter driving a 1950 Oldsmobile, Topeka, Kans., was sixth.

Seventh position went to Tilman Huset, Brandon, S. D., driving a 1951 Plymouth; Herb Craig, Keithville, La., driving a 1948 Nash coupe under the colors of the Dan Robinson Motor Co., placed eighth; Carl Lilienthal, Atlantic, Ia., in his 1949 Ford placed ninth; Floyd Hausperger, Kellogg, Ia., in a Ford was tenth; Jay King, driving a 1950 Ford from Kansas City, was 11th; while Duane Knapp, of Rockwell City, Ia., in a Mercury was 12th.

Wins Trophy and $500 Purse

Champion Skadal was the winner of the $500 purse and was also presented a beautiful championship trophy by William E. "Bill" Preston, secretary-manager of the Missouri State Fair. After the presentation hundreds of racing fans crowded the track and swarmed around the winner and other cars which tney had been pulling for during the race.

The blood thirsty fans failed to get their wish, in fact the 100 miles were run by drivers, who although they took chances, kept their cars under control and avoided any accidents or even minor mishaps. Not one time was it necessary to use the yellow slow flag or the red danger flag notifying the drivers a wreck had occurred.

It was a steady grind, with the fans getting their thrill in seeing the drivers battling for winning positions.

Thirty Cars in Trials

Thirty cars took the time trials out of which the fastest 25 cars were nominated for the 100-mile grind. The big event was completed with only five cars dropping clear out of the running.

The entry of the Boots-Olson Motor Co., a 1951 Steudebaker Commander which was driven by Joie Ray, Portland, Ore., failed to make the grade for the 100-mile event. Ray was unable to any faster than 64.32 seconds. But after the race, Rodney Carter who placed sixth in the race took the Studebaker out for a trial run. He circled the track in 60-seconds flat, and remarked, "had I driven the car in the trials when the track was at its best, I bet I could have trimmed two more seconds off for 58.

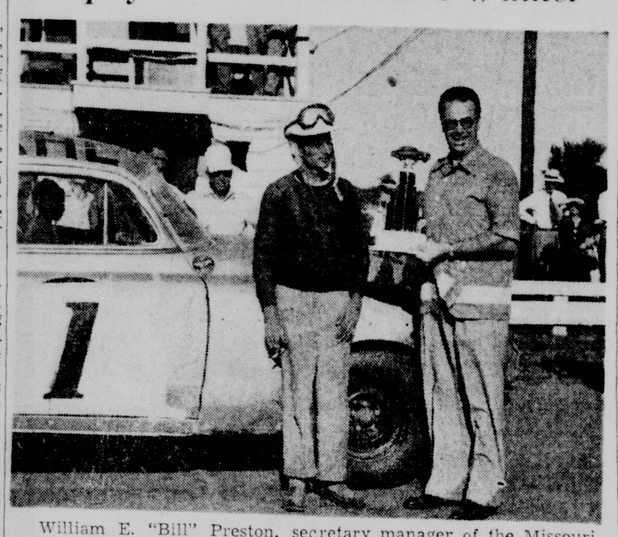
Speedway Official Pleased

Gaylord White, of National Speedways, Inc., who promoted the race, was well pleased with the turn-out of drivers. "I have seen a lot of these stock car races, but I recall no finer group of men than were here for Wednesday's event. I am sure the Missouri fans will be ready for the big racing events on August 19 and the stock car races on the 25th during the Missouri State Fair," White said.

"It looked like fair week," Mr. Preston said, when he looked over the crowded bleachers and the grandstand which was almost filled to capacity. The improvements in the grandstand and the new bleachers makes it possible to handle much larger crowds at the race track. I hope they enjoyed the program."

The crowd was estimated at 12,500.

Trophy to Stock Car Race Winner



William E. "Bill" Preston, secretary manager of the Missouri State Fair, presents to Chris Skadal of Des Moines, Iowa, the beautiful trophy for winning the Missouri State Fair first annual Fourth of July 100-mile stock car race. Skadal had just completed circling the one-mile State Fair track to set a new record, his time being one hour, 38 minutes and 53.87 seconds for the 100 miles. Skadal drove his 1950 88-Oldsmobile coach. From the starting flag to the finish Skadal was never passed nor did he ever have to go into the pits for water, gasoline or a tire change. (Staff photo)

Suspend Kiner For 3 Days

Pirates' Slugger Had Run-in With Umpire Conlan

PITTSBURGH, July 5—(AP)—Ralph Kiner, slugging Pittsburgh outfielder, is smarting quietly today under a three-day suspension.

Wordless, Ralph's parting shot before donning civilian clothes until Sunday was a pair of home runs — one a grand slammer — that ended a nine-game home run famine for the National league four-master king.

The slugger's running commentary with his mighty bat drove in seven runs during a Pirates July Fourth display at the expense of the Cincinnati Reds.

Ralph blasted the home runs in the second game of the holiday doubleheader, shortly after he was served notice of the suspension and $100 fine by President Ford Frick of the National league. The usually well behaved Kiner was charged with pushing and shoving Umpire Jocko Conlan while protesting a decision in the Chicago Cubs game here Tuesday. The result: Kiner was ousted from a ball game for the first time in his six-year major league career.

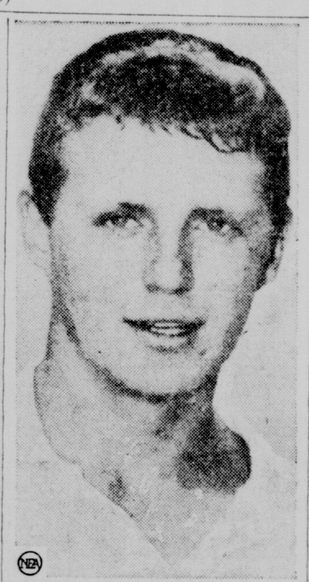
Kiner says he didn't push Conlan, but accidentally stepped on the umpire's foot after charging over to protest Conlan's calling him out on a close play at first base. Conlan also ejected Pirate coaches Bill Posedel and Milt Stock. Posedel received the same fine and suspension as Kiner, but Stock did not.

Kiner's arguing about an infield out, which he was doing when Conlan ejected him in the sixth inning, is almost as strange a spectacle as his being thrown out of a game.

Kiner stewed all the more when Cincinnati pilot Luke Sewell, after learning of Kiner's suspension midway in yesterday's doubleheader, told the umpires he was playing under protest because Kiner was in the game while suspended.

Branch Rickey said Frick okayed Kiner's playing when told the outfielder was already in action when the telegram arrived announcing his suspension.

Kiner was hot because home runs 18 and 19 would be stricken from the record if Sewell's protest were upheld, and, though such a thing seems unlikely, the Pirates' double win of 4-1 and 16-4 over the Reds would be cancelled.



WHIZ KID—Hamilton Richardson turned in one of the biggest upsets in the history of the All-England Tennis Championships at Wimbledon, eliminating the defending champion, Budge Patty, 4-6, 6-3, 4-6, 10-8, 6-4. He is the 17-year-old United States junior champion out of Baton Rouge, La. (NEA)

Royal Governor Wins Rich Race

CHICAGO, July 5—(AP)—Royal Governor, owned by Mrs. Ethel Du Pont Weir of Wilmington, Del., made his first win in seven starts this season a jackpot payoff of $41,950 by taking yesterday's Stars and Stripes handicap at Arlington Park under expert handling by Eddie Arcaro.

The seven-year old son of Pilate equalled the turf course record of 1:45 1/5 for the mile and and a furlong in beating favored Walmac Farm's Volcanic by a length.

The 23rd running of the holidy fixture—4 richest turf course race in the world—drew 35,624 customers who wagered $1,880,819 for the day.

Net Victory to Pancho Segura

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., July 5—(AP)—Pancho Segura, the two-fisted swinger from Ecuador, pocketed a check for $2,300 today for winning the National Professional Tennis championship — but promoter Bobby Riggs was a sad man.

Little Pancho won the title for the second straight year yesterday on the wet turf of the West Side Tennis club when he whipped Pancho Gonzales, the former amateur king, in the final, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Riggs, who was hoping for clear weather and a crowd of 10,000, got rain and an audience of 4,000. In order to break even for the jinxed tournament, a total of $30,000 was needed. He failed by about $7,000.

Good Leads to Dodgers and White Sox

Brooklyn And the Chicago Teams Are Going Strong

By Joe Reichler
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Brooklyn and the Chicago White Sox fail to win the pennant, chalk up one against tradition.

Baseball history discloses the team in first place after games of Fourth of July walks off with the flag about two thirds of the time.

Both leagues show the same figures. Since the turn of the century, the Independence Day leaders in the National and American Leagues won in 33 of the 50 campaigns.

The White Sox joined the Dodgers as July 4 leaders yesterday by splitting a double header in Detroit while Washington's Senators stunned the Yankees with a sweep of their twin bill in New York.

Chicago won the second game, 5-1, after losing a 6-3 opener to wrest first place in the American from the Yankees by a half game.

New York dropped 9-6 and 6-5 decisions.

Brooklyn increased its first place margin in the national to six and a half games over New York, thumping the Giants twice, 6-5 in 11 innings and 4-2.

Boston's third place Red Sox climber to within two and a half games of the American League lead, winning two in Philadelphia, 9-0 and 9-5. Cleveland helped tighten the race even more by sweeping a pair in St. Louis, 6-5 and 4-3 in a 15-inning marathon.

The St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Cubs in Chicago, 10-5. The second game of the scheduled double header was rained out. Philadelphia moved into fourth place past Cincinnati by rapping the Braves in Boston twice, 4-1 and 3-1.

Pittsburgh moved to within three games of seventh place with a pair of wins against Cincinnati, 4-1 and 16-4.

It took some fine bounce back baseball for the Dodgers to win yesterday's opener. They trailed 4-0 going into the eighth. Homers by Roy Campanella and Pee Wee Reese made it 4-3. Gil Hodges' single tied it 4-4 in the ninth and chased starter Sal Maglie.

Bobby Thomson slammed his fourth homer in as many games in the top of the 11th off Preacher Roe to give the Giants a 5-4 lead. But a double by Duke Snider and Jackie Robinson's single tied the score in the Dodgers' half. An error and Roe's squeeze bunt enabled Robinson to cross the plate with the winning run. Carl Erskine's two-run single gave the Dodgers a sweep.

Veteran Joe Dobson pitched the White Sox into first place with a nine-hit victory over the Tigers. He needed help, however, from Marv Rotblatt. Al Zarilla's two-run homer featured a four-run first inning blast against Dizzy Trout. Detroit's Hal Newhouser, aided by Hoot Evers' three-run homer, outpitched Randy Gumpert in the opener.

Gil Coan hammered two three-run homers off Vic Raschi and Joe Ostrowski to lead the Senators to their first game win. Superb relief pitching by Mickey Harris enabled the Nats to make the sweep. Harris scored the winning run himself, doubling in the sixth and crossing the plate on Coan's single.

Maurice McDermott hurled a four-hitter as the Red Sox collected 14 off three Philadelphia hurlers to shut out the A's in the opener. The Sox made it nine in a row over Philadelphia, Kayoing Carl Scheib with a six-run inning in the nightcap.

Bob Avila drove in the winning run in each Cleveland victory over the Browns. His eighth inning single drove in two mates in the first game and his single in the 15th gave relief pitcher Mike Garcia his ninth win.

Ralph Kiner blasted homers No. 18 and 19—one with the bases loaded and the other with two on—to spark the Pirates to their double win.

The doubleheader was played under Red manager Luke Sewell's protest that Kiner was played while under suspension for "pushing and shoving" Umpire Jocko Conlan in Tuesday's game with the Chicago Cubs. Word of Kiner's three-day suspension was not received until the game had been under way. President Ford Frick said it would be effective as of today.

Six-hit pitching by aces Robin Roberts and Bubba Church gave the Phils their double win over the Braves. Home runs by Hal Rice, Wally Westlake and Billy Johnson accounted for half of the Cardinals' runs in their 10-5 victory over the Cubs.

BIG BOY—If you think the Yankee Stadium stands in the background make Allie Reynolds look large, you don't know the half of it. Wahoo looks bigger than this to batters. The Cherokee's string of scoreless innings had baseball writers rushing for record books. (NEA)

Post 16 Defeats Post 98 by 8-0

The Post 16 Junior Legion team came out on the winning end of a game with Sedalia Post 98 Jr. Legion team by a score of 8 to 0. Billy Arnold was on the mound for the Post 16 team, allowing the Post 98 team only three hits and striking out 16 batters. Mines did the receiving.

K. Herndon, the pitcher for the Post 98 team allowed eight hits, struck out three batters, but was wild at times, allowing six walks. His teammates made eight errors behind him. Gray was the catcher.

A practice game followed between the same two teams with the Post 16 team winning by the score of 8 to 6. This was a six inning affair. Fall and Schmitt formed the Post 16 battery with Bridgewater and Cason for Post 98. Umpires were Thomas and Nichols.

Ionia Defeats Fristoe Clowns

Ionia's baseball team defeated the Fristoe Clowns 9-3 in a Fourth of July holiday game at Fristoe.

Ding Swisher on the mound for Ionia had a shaky first inning but after that settled down to pitch air tight ball the rest of the way.

Score by Innings:

Ionia	101 002 104—9
Fristoe	300 000 000—3

Batteries: Ionia, Swisher and Bahrenburg; Fristoe, Short and Flippin.

Second Tourney Game to Knobs

The Knob Noster ball club won its second game of the Richmond regional tournament by defeating the strong Lexington team 4 to 1. Joe Imhauser was on the mound for the Knobs.

Imhauser allowed only four scattered singles until the eighth inning when B. Olds of Lexington connected with a circuit drive over the centerfield fence for Lexington's lone run. Imhauser struck out thirteen batters and didn't allow a free trip to first.

J. Jenkins on the mound for Lexington allowed five hits. However there were three doubles made at crucial points of the game. His support by his teammates was wobbly. They made four costly errors. He struck out seven and walked four.

Livengood led the Knobs attack with two hits out of three times at bat. Charlie Thompson stole two bases. The Knobs team did its scoring in the third inning on a walk, double and two errors for two runs. And two more in the fifth on a walk, two errors and a hit.

In another game of the tournament Richmond defeated Lawson by a score of 12 to 10.

Knob Noster will play its next game, probably Monday night, the opponent to be named.

Score of Tuesday night's game:

Lexington	000 000 010—1	5	4
Knob Noster	002 020 00x—4	5	0

J. Jenkins and D. Olds; Imhauser and Cochran.

Postpone Open Golf Touney

The Sedalia Invitational Open Golf tournament, which was to be played at the Sedalia Country club Monday, July 9, has been postponed due to the heavy rains which have left the course in an unplayable condition.

J. W. Grayston, chairman of the tournament committee, said today that he had contacted Duke Gibson, president of the Midwest PGA which sanctions the meet and has requested that another date be set for the tourney. Mr. Grayston said the tournament probably will be held sometime in September.

About 65 entries had already been received by the tournament commission and another hundred players from Kansas City, St. Louis and Springfield were expected to file entries before the matches got underway.

Citation Wins At Inglewood

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 5—(AP) — Whatever suspicion there may have been that Citation would never bank a million dollars for his Calumet Farm was almost entirely dispelled today.

Running the rest of a fine field into the ground big Cy won the $50,000 American handicap at Hollywood Park yesterday and there were mighty cheers and few tears among the sentimental in the holiday crowd of 54,700.

It was the sort of race that Citation and the crowd loves—close into the stretch with a drive to the wire. There were hints that Dewitch, Citation's six year old stablemate who was a half length back, might have won under more pressure.

The chart caller, whose remarks are as official as anything at the track, put down Citation's finish as driving, Bewitch's as handily, and said the fleet mare "was not excessively preservered with at the end."

But to the crowd it was a smashing Citation triumph, which put him a mere $14,240 short of his goal of a million dollars. His Independence day was worth $33,-050, which brought his earnings to date to $985,760.

He can go far over the top a week from Saturday if he wins the $100,000 gold cup, and as of today's he is the horse to beat. In yesterday's field were the best running in the west, with the possible exception of stablemate Coaltown, a late scratch.

Silver Star to Pvt. Swope

Receives it for Gallantry in Action in Korea

Pfc. Orval L. Swope, son of Mr. and Mrs Frank Swope, route 4, Sedalia, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action in Korea.

Swope is a member of the 37th field artillery battalion of the 2nd division. He distinguished himself in the fighting near Taegu last August.

The citation read in part:

Private Swope was an assistant driver of an ammunition truck returning to its battery. As they passed by the position of battery B, they noticed it was under intense fire, which had caused the position to be evacuated. Guns and equipment had been left in position so Private Swope and his companion stopped to see if they could be of any help.

"Immediately volunteers were called for to re-enter the vacated spot to get a howitzer and take it to the new battery position. With his comrades, Swope entered the area, which still was under enemy observation. Moving calmly and courageously through the area, Private Swope aided in placing the piece in traveling position, hooking it onto a truck and moving it to its new destination. The timely arrival of this piece greatly aided the infantry in their next attack."

The last word received by his parents from Pfc. Swope said that he was on his way back to Japan from where he he believed he would be sent home.

Amp Rehabilitation Team Helps on Low Days

By NEA Service

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Bob Smith was having one of his low days. He lay in his bed in Ward 34 at Walter Reed hospital and you could see he didn't care particularly what happened any more. The stumps where both his arms and legs were amputated had healed but his morale was very low.

Two men walked into the ward. They were in civilian clothes, kept their hands in their pockets, and looked like ordinary hospital visitors. Smith didn't look up; neither did the other amputees in the ward.

"Hi, ya, soldier," said one of the visitors. "How's it going?"

Bob Simth just nodded in answer.

The other visitor walked around to the side where Bob's head faced, and took his hands out of his pockets. Only they weren't hands; they were hooks. He twitched his shoulders, to set the hook in operation, and deftly removed a single sheet of tissue from a box on the table. He carefully wiped his lips and tossed the used sheet in the waste basket.

Then he twitched his shoulders again, and the hook darted into an inside pocket and came out with a cigarette. Another movement and he had a book of matches. He tore off one, struck it, lit the cigarette, shook the match out and put it in an ashtray.

Smith and his buddies were all eyes by this time. But the show wasn't over.

The other visitor began dancing around to the rhythm of music from a bedside radio. When he finished he pulled up his trouser legs, giving them all a long look at his two artificial legs.

That broke the ice. The two men, legless Herman Pheffer and armless Lonnie Carberry, are the American Legion's "amp rehabilitation team." They tour veterans' hospitals to show the wounded service men that amputation is not the end of the world. They show the newly-amputated that you can get around pretty well on artificial legs and take care of yourself fine with artificial arms. And they help the boys through the low days.

Pheffer and Carberry had their low days, too. Both lost their limbs in World War II, Pheffer in Italy and Carberry in France. Smith, who lost all four of his limbs, was wounded in Korea.

After they've demonstrated their skill with their artificial limbs, the two morale-boosters go into a regular sales pitch. They try—and usually succeed—to convince the men that they shouldn't be downhearted. Carberry tells them how he operates his cotton farm near Waco, Tex., drives a tractor, shaves, and gets along easily with his two hooks.

Pheffer, a Brooklyn, N. Y., native, shows how an artificial leg isn't a bar to dancing or running or turning. Both answer any questions th other amputees can ask.

They also visit the physical training sections, where the amputees learn to use their new limbs. They discuss the different types of artificial hands, legs and knee actions.

And there is nothing as good for an amputee's low day as to see a living example of how the handicap can be overcome.

FLOATING ALONE—Capt. Norman N. E. Brocker, of the British forces in Korea, decided to take a nice cool dip after reading the headlines which read "All Quiet on Front." But being on the front himself, he wasn't ready to believe everything he reads, so he donned his steel helmet—just in case. Or anyhow, that's what the man said.

Even The Air Over Hanford's Out of Bounds

But It's Tough to Defend Atomic Factory From Industrial Woes

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

HANFORD, Wash.—(NEA)—In the operations office of an Air Force base a few hundred miles from here there is a sign for all to see which says:

"If you have never had a court-martial, try flying over Hanford."

At another nearby base the sign reads:

"It is better never to have flown at all than to fly over Hanford."

Only the jet fighter pilots whose 24-hour-a-day mission is to defend the 620-acre Hanford site from air attack, are permitted to fly over it. For every other pilot, the air above the site where they make plutonium for the atomic bomb is strictly out of bounds.

Because Hanford is considered the A-bomb manufacturing area closest to possible air attack by Russia, it is probably the most heavily-guarded of any of the Atomic Energy Commission's establishments.

However, there is one defense of Hanford which is beginning to look vulnerable. That is its protection against the creeping industrial woes caused by America's expanding war production.

By dint of industrial resourcefulness and certain emergency measures, production of plutonium has been maintained at a satisfactory rate with the rest of the A-bomb program. Production of plutonium has doubled since General Electric Co. took over in 1947, and cost per unit has been cut in half.

Nevertheless, the labor and material shortages which have been caused by the Korean-inspired mobilization are having an impact.

G. R. Prout, GE vice president in charge, says there are growing shortages of such things as construction materials and stainless steel. And there is growing need for such specialists as instrument mechanics—to maintain the elaborate precision instruments needed in the production of plutonium—and draftsmen and other technicians.

About 20 per cent of the 8000 GE Hanford employes are working a six-day week. Teams of expediters are keeping vital materials flowing in here at a reduced but steady rate. And training programs have been started to create the skills for which there is a bad shortage.

As far as the shortage of personnel goes, the key lies in the amazing city of Richland, a few miles from the manufacturing site of Hanford, which houses all of GE's employes and their families. There are many extraordinary things about Richland.

Having jumped from a population of 300 in 1943 to a city of 23,000 today, it is probably America's fastest-growing city. Every inch of land is owned by Uncle Sam and managed for the population by GE's Commercial Facilities Division. Individual private enterprises run such things as retail stores, restaurants, and laundries. The townspeople seem to be happy under the GE regime.

Because the prime mission of Hanford is as an industrial enterprise, it is natural that Richland would have more of an industry-town atmosphere than the AEC's Los Alamos, which is built on a beautiful mountain plateau and has more of a university-town atmosphere. But Richland is an extremely pleasant industry-type city.

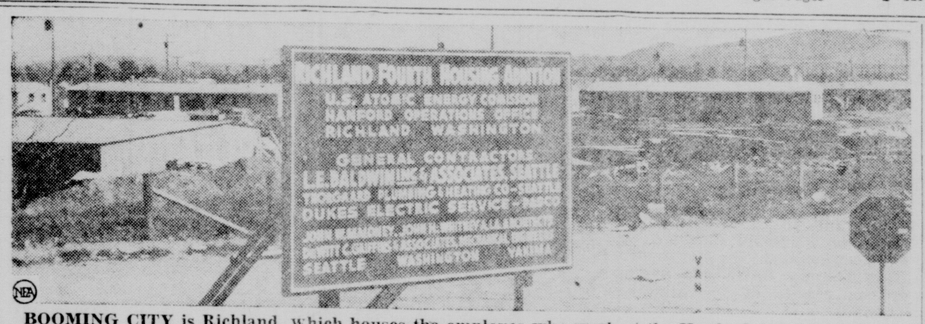
Its row of neat, modern frame cottages compare favorably with any prosperous U. S. suburb, as do its modern, up-to-date shops, new schools and new churches.

Main source of recreation for the citizens of Richland are the natural facilities of Washington's beautiful mountains, lakes and streams, Richlanders live an out-of-door existence with fishing, skiing and hunting as the main diversions.

Richlanders appear to be taking the war-scare of recent months with little panic, in spite of the fact that they possibly present the most ready target for Russian bombers striking across the North Pole route and Alaska.

"We don't want war any more than any other citizen of the U. S.," says a typical Richlander, "but I do think we all are more serious about our work because of its vital importance to the country's defense."

A-BOMB WORKER is Mary E. Shidleer, a chemist with the Technical Division's Analytical Section at the Hanford Works. She is working with a "hot" sample behind a lead-shielder hood.



BOOMING CITY is Richland, which houses the employes who work at the Hanford A-bomb manufacturing area. It's grown from 300 in 1943 to 23,000 today. This is the site of a new housing project which will accomodate 300 families.

Jets and Armor in Manchuria

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, July 5—President Truman was skeptical when he first heard about Russia's desire for a truce in Korea.

"It's like walking across a mine field," he told a friend. "You never know when a mine will blow up on you."

U. S. military men have been as skeptical as Truman, diplomats not so skeptical. Diplomats believe that the Kremlin has been watching our new atomic tests, that the Chinese have been seriously hurt by our slaughter of their troops, and that all hands would welcome an armistice.

Reason for military skepticism is that Russia has been shipping new jets into Manchuria at the rate of 150 per month. The jets are shipped in crates on the Trans-Siberian railroad, assembled just across the Siberian border, then flown into Manchuria.

Chief probable reason for the Communist desire for delay in discussing a truce is their mechanized army now building up across the Yalu river. This army is made up of "volunteers" from the satellites. U. S. intelligence reports it to be fairly well mechanized, and preparations for this army have been going on since Malik's peace offer. That is why army men have their tongue-in-cheek regarding any bona fide desire for peace.

No announcement was made to the press, but Iowa's Democratic senator Guy Gillette resigned as chairman of the Senate elections committee last week in a flare-up over the Maryland election probe.

Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and Tom Hennings of Missouri, Democrats, with Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and Robert Hendrickson of New Jersey, Republicans, have been probing the smear campaign that led to the defeat of veteran Senator Millard Tydings and the election of John Butler. Missouri's Hennings had brought up the Maryland matter behind closed doors of the full Senate rules committee. He complained that the Maryland subcommittee couldn't get out a report, because it lacked a counsel. He pointed out that the House had blocked an attempt to hire Robert T. Murphy, a Washington lawyer, as counsel, and that the committee was still relying on Gillette's friend and the former counsel, Ed McDermott, who was no longer on the payroll but spent his time flying between his law practice in Iowa and the committee in Washington.

"I am tired of fooling around with this committee without a counsel," the Missouri senator observed. "Senator Hendrickson and I are the only two lawyers on the committee and we don't have time to go to the law libraries to do the research."

Gillette exploded: "I have been trying to get a report from the subcommittee for six months," he said. "This whole business has caused me a great deal of personal discomfort."

Looking Backward

Forty Years

Two excursion trains were run out of Sedalia July 4 by the Missouri Pacific, one to Concordia and the other to Warsaw for Fourth of July celebrations. Both trains handled large crowds.

Five thousand people visited Liberty Park July 4 enjoying an old-fashioned picnic with music by the Sedalia Military band and addresses. The speaker included City Attorney E. W. Couey, G. W. Barnett and C. C. Lawson. The Rev. J. D. Prigmore presided at the speech making. The Rev L. W. Sifford and the Rev O. A. Kuhn were in charge of the athletic events.

The Queen City Electric company was awarded the contract for needed electrical wiring at the court house.

Joseph Salisbury, a contractor, left for a visit of a couple of weeks with his father at Aspen, Colo.

Prof. John P. Gass, superintendent of city schools, left for San Francisco, Calif., to attend the annual meeting of the National Educators' Association.

"We always lose playing gin with you—George can't change the rules the way he does when he plays with me at home!"

IX

I DON'T think I explained it very well, for Timothy O'Brien heard me out with skepticism on his Irish pan. "You don't believe me, do you?" I finished lamely.

He looked long and intently at his hands, clasped around the crossed knee.

"It's not exactly that." I winced at the "exactly," emphasized as surely as if the human voice were equipped with various fonts of oral type, like some strange vocal linotype machine. "It's just—Good Lord, Miss Tobias! Didn't you ever hear of the FBI? People like Metzker and the Bursons are our business!"

"But I'm telling the truth!"

He shrugged it off. Obviously he could not understand the animal urge to run, even when your life depends on it.

"At any rate," he went on, "it looked like you ran away for one of two reasons: you had stumbled onto some very dangerous information, as you told Lieutenant Stuart, or—" he looked at me very straight—"you were getting a little too deep in Metzker's game and you wanted out."

I sat bolt upright. "You think I—!"

"It's a definite possibility, Miss Tobias." O'Brien was very bland about it. "The same thing has happened before and will happen again, idealists find themselves throttling the very things men are willing to die for and, all of a sudden, they want out. And so they disappear. Too often before they get a chance to cry traitor." Timothy O'Brien took a deep breath, expelled it noisily. "You get the point?"

I nodded. "Carl said I was idealistic, too. And patriotic."

"That's why you had to die."

"Then you do believe me?"

"I didn't say that, Miss Tobias." He added, "Let's say I'm willing to be convinced."

FOR a long time after he left, I lay there, thinking. I scarcely touched the lunch the flint-faced nurse brought me.

O'Brien's suspicions were logical, I suppose. It would stand to reason that a man like Carl Metzker would surround himself with employes he could trust with his nefarious secrets.

On the other hand, I argued from my viewpoint, not Timothy O'Brien's, what greater security than a legitimate public relations front? Recalling the tub-thumping we had done via newspaper, radio and word-of-mouth for the witch-hunting book, "There's A Spy In Our Midst." I almost laughed. Carl must have gotten a bang out of that!

I rang for the nurse. "I feel perfectly well," I told the student nurse who came. "Can you get me a robe or something? I want to make a phone call."

"I don't think you can, Miss Tobias." She looked scared; perturbed fingers smoothed the blue and white striped uniform.

"Am I a prisoner?"

"Oh, no!" Her eyes widened.

"Then why can't I use the telephone? Did that Mr. O'Brien say I couldn't?"

The girl gave me a smile then, but it was not nearly as assured and professional as she thought it was. "Oh, no," she said quickly. Almost too quickly. "But you have had a bad shock, Miss Tobias. You have a serious head injury and your—" She had started to say "your face," the startled look on her own pretty features said, but she substituted, "—your doctor says you must have absolute quiet."

I just looked at her. Absolute quiet—when I had been accused of being a spy who had run to keep from being liquidated by others of my ilk. Absolute quiet—when they hadn't found Carl. I turned my back to her and closed my eyes. Absolute quiet. It was easy to say.

Around me the hospital lived and breathed. Footsteps whispered as visitors sailed by, their voices subdued. The man on guard outside my door flirted with the nurses: the voice was not O'Brien's he must have been relieved.

The afternoon dragged on. It was hard not to think of Carl, out there somewhere, knowing by now that he had failed.

I shuddered, thankful for the guard in the hall.

Outside my window, treetops bowed and scraped in the rising wind. It was not raining, but the sky looked leaden.

I WAS asleep when Bart Jonathan came. I awoke to see him sitting on the chair beside my bed, as solemn-eyed, as good-looking in that ugly, awkward way that women love, as he had been that day when I sat across the desk from him and said I had come to see "my poor Paul's property."

How could a week seem so long!

"I'm sorry I lied to you. But I had to tell you I was Caroline. There seemed no other way to escape them."

They weren't the words I had planned to say. They weren't even the words I wanted to say. But Bart Jonathan sort of chuckled, and the grin spread all over his lean face.

"You should be! You stopped me cold the minute I saw you, Mary Tobias. You weren't the girl on Uncle Peter Leigh's mantle, but why in blazes were you pretending to be? The property wasn't that valuable. You aren't the type for country living—"

"I'm—not?" Darn it!

What I wanted to hear from Bart Jonathan was that I did belong in Hollister.

It was a long time before I heard anything more than the echo of the policeman telling Bart he had to leave, that O'Brien had called and Miss Tobias was not to have callers. None at all.

"She's under arrest."

X

STUNNED, I stared at the man. gradually his face came back into focus. Arrested! For espionage! It was unbelievable! I buried my scratched, bruised face in my hands.

Me—under arrest. Carl had won, in a sense. Nobody would believe now that I was not guilty. Once accused, the stigma of treason would be hard to live down.

"Bart, I'm not guilty," I told him, and was surprised that my voice was so level. "You've got to believe me!"

"Of course I believe you." But it was too pat. His heart was not in it. "O'Brien's wrong."

"You've got to leave, Mr. Jonathan," the officer said again. "Mr. O'Brien said—"

"Okay, okay." Impatiently, Bart stood up. "Don't worry, Mary. You've got the best lawyer in Hollister." He grinned. "Can't be helped, I'm the only one too."

By that time he was at the door, talking over his shoulder. The guard followed him into the hall. Neither of them could wait to get away from me.

I didn't cry. There are times when you just don't, whether because there isn't another tear left in you or whether the shock is too great, I don't know. I just sat there in the middle of the hospital bed, trying to see myself as O'Brien must see me—as the accused.

Gingerly, I felt my bandaged head. It felt fine, no buzzing or throbbing, as there had been at first. If I had my clothes—I discarded the thought. When you're innocent, you don't run from the FBI.

If my guard was still in the hall, he was mighty quiet. I rang.

The nurse had a harried look, as if the supper hour was almost too much for her. "Yes, Miss Tobias?"

"Could I have a newspaper, please?"

"I'll see if I can find one."

She sounded tired and a bit aggravated that I should make such a request. I didn't get my paper. Instead I got beef broth, peas and carrots and a glass of milk. I cleaned the tray; they were a long time coming after it.

Aside from a brief visit from my doctor, who pronounced me "fit as a fiddle" and said I must have a skull of cast iron, and the bedtime visit from the nurse, I was left pretty much alone. Once the guard looked in to say Bart had called to tell me he had not been able to find Timothy O'Brien but for me not to worry.

I said dryly, "Thanks. Any news of Carl Metzker?"

"No, ma'am," the man admitted and popped back into his shell before I could trip him on another.

I didn't have a watch but when the noise subsided I could tell that visiting hours had ended.

THE hospital settled down, grew quiet. If my guard had not cleared his throat frequently, I might have suspected the hall was deserted. After a time I flicked off my light.

Surrounded as I was by the antiseptic silence, the darkness was not as frightening as it might have been. I thought of Bart, of Carl, of Timothy O'Brien who had been "willing to be convinced" until he went away.

Then what? I asked the darkness.

What had O'Brien been told that accused me along with Carl Metzker, Van, Frank, the Bursons? Who had lied to him? Why?

O'Brien would not be easily fooled. He had known that Caroline was linked, by name at least, to the Washington Burson whom they had identified as the man I had heard Carl tell "I will have them copied by midnight, you shall have the originals for your top secret files." O'Brien knew that and so much of the rest of the story that his finger on me was going to be hard to budge.

Someone had done a good job framing—or of weaving circumstantial evidence. At the moment it didn't make much difference which. It was a very legal trap, and I was caught in it.

I didn't sleep. Too many memories kept crowding out of my subconscious.

Lieutenant Stuart's smirk followed me out of police headquarters back in New York, Carl's accusing anger met me at the office. I fled all over again, through the hellish night and morning and the long train ride that followed. Hollister's bare little depot; pleasant, and that day sunshiny. Main Street; the big square old house where Bart Jonathan still kept the neat gilt-lettered sign, "Jonathan & Son, Attorneys," in the yard although he told me his father had died last year.

I LOOKED at the window. The tossing treetops beyond it glistened damply in light reflected from street lamps below. They looked lonely, as lonely as the old pines around the Leigh house that had been sanctuary for a little while. I wondered if the pines had burned with the house. That would be a shame, I thought.

But then, Carl didn't care for the majesty of old trees. It didn't matter to Carl Metzker if trees died or if men died. Or a woman—Mary Tobias.

I turned over, away from the trees.

My door was opening. The nurse came in quietly, closing the door behind her.

As she approached the bed, I said, "I didn't ring, nurse."

She didn't answer.

She was at the bed, her white uniform pale in the darkness. Why didn't she turn on the light? Why—

That perfume—!

It wasn't my nurse it was Caroline! She had come to kill me.

With a cry, I flung myself away from her.

Cause of Polio Is Known, But It Isn't Total Answer

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NET Service

The cause of poliomyelitis has been known for some years. It is a virus which is a tiny living organism too small to see under the ordinary microscope. Knowing the cause, however, has not brought all the answers to the disease and there are many things still to learn.

One difficulty which has prevented more rapid progress is the fact that there are few experimental animals which are susceptible to virus and its behavior is therefore difficult to study. Furthermore there are at least two kinds of polio virus and what happens to them in the cold months or at other times and places when polio practically disappears has remained something of a mystery.

Nevertheless knowledge of the cause has brought some practical benefits. It is believed that the virus is spread by close contact between someone who harbors the virus and a susceptible person. Thus some people may carry the virus without having the disease: they have enough resistance to avoid symptoms and yet may spread the virus to others.

The virus, too, has been found in water which has been contaminated by human waste and this mode of spread is a possibility though generally believed less likely than direct contact. At any rate, from a practical point of view, this leads to the conclusion that it is unwise to go needlessly into an area where polio is more than unusually common or to mingle more than necessary in crowds at such times.

Medicine cannot yet offer an accepted vaccine which will build up resistance to polio through experiments along these lines have been made and may eventually prove successful. But it is important to use certain precausions which lessen the risk.

Check On Fevers

In addition to avoiding unnecessary contacts when polio is frequent, all children who develop unexplained fever at such times should be promptly put to bed and kept away from other youngsters until a diagnosis of the cause has been made. This is not only best for the sick child (and the illness turns out to be something else more often than not), but also aids in preventing the spread of the disease.

Other steps which are advised are the avoidance of unnecessary operations, especially around the nose and throat, and excessive exercise after any sign of indisposition. It must be emprasized that these precautions are recommendtd only when there is an unusual amount of polio in the community; trying to wrap children in cotton wool all summed from unreasonable fear is unwise and unneeded.

Flavor Milk for Your Children

"SKYLINER"-FILLED ROLLS and flavored milk, a tempting treat for children's summer party.

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

Just as much in summer as in winter all the dairy foods are essential for children's health. Milk is one of the most important so if the young folks in your house begin to lose interest, try flavoring their milk a little.

It will take only a minutes to do. There are now packaged flavors for milk on sale. Or you can use many flavors from the pantry shelf.

Strawberry Flip (Serves 1)

One cup milk, 3 tablespoons strawberry jam, few drops red food coloring.

Warm milk, add strawberry jam and coloring. Chill thoroughly and serve.

Spiced Honey (Serves 1)

One and one-half tablespoons honey, dash cinnamon, 1 cup milk Pour honey and cinnamon in a glass. Mix well. Add milk.

Cheery-Cherry (Serves 1)

One cup milk, 1 tablespoon of maraschino cherry juice, few drops red food coloring. Mix together and serve.

For a party, serve "Skyliner" buns with the flavored milk.

Skyliners (Serves 6)

Six hamburger buns, 6 tablespoons butter, 2 cups Humpty-dumpty filling, 2 cups Mad-Hatter filling. Garnishes: Pimiento, carrot strips, sliced stuffed olives, sliced tomato, celery slices, black olives, capers.

Partially cut out center of hamburger rolls, leaving ½ inch layer at the bottom of the roll. Spread inside of each bun with butter. Toast buns in oven. Fill three of the buns with Humpt-dumpty filling and the other three with Mad-Hatter filling. Decorate each differently with your choice of garnishes.

Humpty-Dumpty Filling

Four hard-cooked eggs, chopped, ½ cup diced American cheese, ½ cup celery, diced, ½ cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon salt. Blend all ingredients together. Store in refrigerator until needed.

Mat-Hatter Filling

SCROUNGING FOR FOOD—After a regional ban on gathering seaweed at Kuju-Kurihama, Japan, was lifted, scores of fisherwomen raced to the beach to harvest the slimy plants, sometimes called sea lettuce they are used for salads and to flavor other foods.

Marshmallow Firecrackers (Makes six)

Twenty-four marshmallows, six peppermint candy sticks (5-inch lengths), 1½ sheets 8x10 red construction paper.

To make each marshmallow fire cracker: With a skewer, dipped into hot water to prevent sticking, punch a hole through the centers of four marshmallows. Insert a five-inch peppermint stick thru the stack of four marshmallows, arranged flate sides together. About a 1½ inch length of candy stick serves as the firecracker fuse. With a scissors cut a 4x5 inch rectangle from a sheet of red construction paper. Wrap the rectangle around the marshmallows to form a tube and secure with Scotch tape. Stand in upright position as a firecracker.

Tuna Good Source of Proteins

TUNA TETRAZZINI, a wonderful meatless treat that will help remedy the scarcity or the high price of meat.

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

Don't let the scarcity or high price of meat get you down. There are lots of other foods, more plentiful and less expensive, that can give your family the protein and sense of satisfaction they need to be strong and happy.

Canned tuna is as good a source of "complete" protein as meat and there is an abundant supply of it in our markets. In this unusually delicious recipe, tuna is combined with the new instant chicken cubs, milk, eggs and flour to produce a dish manfully supplied with top quality protein.

Tuna Tetrazzini (6 servings)

One-half pound thin spaghetti, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup flour, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, one teaspoon paprika, five instant chicken bouillon cubes, 1 cup water, 1 tall can evaporated milk, one 7-oz. can tuna, flaked; four hard-cooked eggs, coarsely chopped; ½ cup minced green pepper, ¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese (optional).

Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender; drain. Melt butter or margarine in top of double boiler; blend in flour, pepper and paprika. Add instant chicken bouillon cubes; crush and blend in. Add water and evaporated milk; stir over low heat until smooth and thickened. Cover; cook over hot water 10 minutes. Divide sauce in half; to ½ add spaghetti; blend well. Add tuna, eggs and green pepper to remaining sauce. Arrange spaghetti in serving dish; top with tuna mixture; sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese. For a summer luncheon, deep sea chowder offers a protein rich treat.

Deep Sea Chowder (6 servings)

One-eighth pound fat salt pork, diced; 1 medium onion, chopped; 2 instant chicken bouillon cubes, 2 cups hot water, medium potatoes, diced; ⅛ teaspoon pepper, one 7-oz. can tuna, flaked; 2 cups milk, minced parsley.

Fry salt pork in saucepan until crisp and golden brown; drain on absorbent paper. Cook onion in salt pork drippings until soft but not brown. Dissolve instant chicken bouillon cubes in hot water; add with potatoes and pepper. Simmer until potatoes are tender (about 15 minutes). Add flaked tuna and milk; heat but do not boil. Garnish with parsley and crisp salt pork.

MENU

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, ready to eat cereal, poached eggs on toast, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Toasted peanut butter and chili sauce sandwiches, cabbage and apple salad, stewed blackberries, cookies, iced tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, tuna Tetrazzini, cucumber salad, bread sticks or French bread, fresh fruit gelatin with crushed berries sauce, coffee, milk.

Beat Meat Prices With Beans

BOUNTIFUL MEATLESS MAIN DISH—Chili bean bake, combining kidney beans and corn.

By Gaynor Maddox
NEA Staff Writer

When meat is scarce or highly priced, look elsewhere for good protein food.

Dried beans are a good source of protein. If combined with a little milk or cheese, or if any other "complete" protein is served with them at the meal, they become excellent food for the family's main meal. Furthermore dried beans are plentiful now and budget priced.

Chili Bean Bake
(4 generous servings)

Two tablespoons bacon fat, ¼ cup finely diced onion, 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet, 2 teaspoons flour ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon chili powder, 8-ounce can tomato sauce No. 2 can red kidney beans, 12-ounce can whole kernel corn.

Melt fat over moderate heat. Add onion and let cook about 3 minutes, stirring frequently. Stir in kitchen bouquet. Add flour, salt and chili powder, mixing well. Add contents of can of tomato sauce. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Add contents of cans of kidey beans and corn. Pour ito individual casseroles and heat in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) until thoroughly hot, about 30 minutes. Serve garnished with a half strip of crisp bacon. Accompany with brown bread and a crisp mixed green salad.

Baked Bean Patties
(Yield: 8 patties)

One No. 2 can kidney beans, 4 ounces American cheese, two tablespoons finely diced onion, 1 egg, ¼ cup milk, ¾ cup fine dry bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon minced parsley; 2 tablespoons soft fat, 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet, 8-ounce can tomato sauce, ¼ cup finely diced green pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 3-oz. can chapped broiled mushrooms.

Drain kidney beans and coarsely diced cheese. Put beans and cheese through food chopper together. Add onion, egg, milk, bread crumbs, salt, pepper and parsley. Mix together well with kitchen fork and let stand at least five minutes. Drop mixture by heaping tablespoons onto greased shallow baking dish, making 8 large patties. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) until patties are crusty on the outside, about 15 minutes. Blend together the fat and kitchen bouquet and brush lightly over the tops of the patties. Continue baking until patties are crisp and browned, about 15 minutes longer. Meanwhile combine remaining ingredients in small saucepan. Bring to boil. Let simmer about 5 minutes. Serve the hot sauce over the patties.

Alabama raises nearly one tenth of the cotton raised in the United States.

Flocks of boobies, hunting fish, will dive in unison from a height of 70 feet and disappear in a flash.

"THAT'S MY POP!"—Three-year-old Gary Adams shows that he's a mighty proud boy—and why wouldn't he be. Isn't his dad, M/Sgt. Stanley P. Adams one of the top heroes of the Korean war? Sergeant Adams, happily reunited with his family in their Olathe, Kan., home relaxes before going to Washington to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Truman. He won the medal by heroism in a suicidal charge in Korea.

Successful Marriage Calls for A Bit of Mutual Dependency

A new-style bride's course—this one given in Boston—is teaching brides-to-be how to do the chores husbands in general like to put off, such as wiring a new plug onto an electric cord, replacing a worn washer, painting the kitchen cupboards, building bookshelves, etc.

It's okay if the husbands of the brides-to-be who graduate from the course in turn have studied up on a few of the feminine arts, such as darning socks, sewing on buttons and ironing shirts.

If they haven't then the job of homemaking is going to be a little bit lopsided, with the lady of the house doing her tasks and Papa's, too.

Come to think of it, why don't we just stick to the old way of letting the wife do the so-called woman's jobs and letting the man of the house take care of the handyman jobs that need to be done?

Old Custom Was Better

That worked fine for Grandma and Grandpa. In fact, they got a sort of mutual dependency out of it.

Grandpa may have grumbled a bit when Grandma wanted to know when he was going to build the shelves to hold her canned goods. But he did have the satisfaction of knowing it was a job Grandma couldn't do for herself. Just as Grandma knew Grandpa couldn't make the jams and jellies to go on the shelves.

Maybe we're encouraging too much self-sufficiency in women today. Telling them they need to know how to earn a living and that even though they plan to be married they should know how to do their own handyman jobs around the house.

A little mutual dependcy never hurt any marriage. Neither does a wife's feeling that her husband can do lots of things she can't—and vice versa.

DAD!—In a heart-warming scene being duplicated all over the U. S. as Army rotation of combat veterans operates, Cpl. Jack Hoyne, arriving home in Chicago from Korea, dashes to meet his father, Joseph Hoyne. Waiting to greet the soldier are his girl friend, Rita Ducat, right, and his sister, Catherine.

REAL CHOW HOUND—The enemy would think twice about trying to take over these food supplies while "Orrin," the German shepherd of the 26th Infantry Scout Dog Plattoon, is on guard. Orrin takes a personal interest in it because it's all horsemeat, strictly for the canine fighters. Pfc. Larry Pollard, of Detroit, shares guard duty with the war dog. Schools Teach Soldiers To Fly

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—Tre Army and the Air Force conduct "air-transportability schools." This righ-sounding name is the cover for a simple project. In order to teach soldiers to overcome air sickness, they are taken for practice flights. It's working, too.

Men who climb aboard planes gingerly soon blossom into soldiers who realize that airplanes move much faster than size 12 shoes.

Much of the sickness encountered in moving troops by air had come from apprehension of the unknown, it was learned. Once soldiers got accustomed to the idea of flying, the fight was half won.
